Ambassadors for Public Education: Education Summer 2015

If you feel passionately about New York public education, we've got a great way you can make a difference this summer – and get paid!

We are working on an exciting and new program in coalition with Citizen Action and the Long Island Progressive Coalition and are looking for NYSUT members in the Capital Region and on Long Island to get involved. Education is one of the most important issues facing our families and our children and we need to do more to protect quality public education. We're quickly expanding our local, grassroots team who will be talking to the public about our most important education issues.

We are looking for passionate, smart and hard-working members to be part of a public education campaign and will be holding interviews starting Monday June 29th.

Apply today so you don't miss out! Grassroots organizing is one of the most rewarding jobs you will ever have because you know you are making a difference.

Summer projects like this are incredibly fast-paced and exciting. If you are looking for a different kind of summer experience that is both rewarding and exciting, apply today!

New and experienced activists welcome!

Pay: $15 an hour
Flexible schedule, evenings required.

You are:

- Willing to work hard and stay positive.
- Friendly.
- A problem solver. No day will be the same which means every problem requires a new solution.
- Passionate about public education and changing the world.

What you can expect to get out of this opportunity:

- Improved communication and interpersonal skills.
- Increased advocacy and issue knowledge about education.
- Knowledge of grassroots field operations.
